FORGE3DPART

Mutual Non-Disclosure Agreement

Review template · November 2026

Drafted template for review, not legal advice. Complete the legal party names and review the terms before signing. Effective only when signed by both parties.

1. Parties and purpose

This agreement is between the legal person or entity operating as FORGE3DPART, at 11111 Katy Freeway, Suite 910, Houston, TX 77079 (identified in the signature block), and the customer identified below. The purpose is to evaluate, quote, design, manufacture or test a potential parts project. Either party may disclose or receive confidential information.

2. Confidential information

Confidential information includes non-public discussions, CAD files, drawings, photographs, samples, specifications, designs, processes, pricing and business information shared for the purpose, whether written, electronic, oral or physical, that is marked confidential or reasonably understood to be confidential. This includes information shared for this purpose before signing.

3. Mutual obligations

Each receiving party will use confidential information only for the purpose, protect it with reasonable care, and not disclose it without the disclosing party's written permission. Access is limited to employees, advisers and contractors who need it for the purpose and are bound by confidentiality obligations at least as protective as these. Each party is responsible for those recipients. Neither party may publish the other's designs, project details or photographs for marketing without written permission.

4. Exceptions and required disclosure

These obligations do not cover information the receiving party can demonstrate was already lawfully known without restriction, becomes public without a breach, is independently developed without using confidential information, or is lawfully received from another source without a duty of confidentiality. If disclosure is legally required, the receiving party will, where legally permitted, give prompt notice and disclose only what is required.

5. Ownership and return

The disclosing party retains ownership of its information and intellectual property. No license is granted except the limited use for the purpose. On written request, the receiving party will return or delete confidential materials, except records required by law and routine backups that remain protected and are not used for other purposes. Neither party is required to proceed with a project, and shared information carries no warranty of accuracy or suitability.

6. Duration

Either party may end further exchanges by written notice. Confidentiality and restricted-use obligations continue for three years after the last disclosure. Information qualifying as a trade secret remains protected for as long as it qualifies under applicable law.

7. Agreement and signatures

This agreement is effective when both parties sign, on the later signature date. Changes must be agreed in writing by both parties. Signed counterparts and scanned or electronically signed copies may be exchanged by email. Each signer confirms authority to bind the party identified below. Clicking a website link or sending an unsigned form does not execute this agreement.
